Lisa's Corner

I am ready for a sew new year! How about you?

Following Peggy Sagers' advice from our Spring Program last year, I planned several outfits and then spent a day doing nothing except for cutting out several garments. I then put each pattern envelope with the cut out fabric into a separate zip-loc bag, along with any required notions like zippers and buttons. Then, whenever I had some free time to sew, I just had to reach for one of my kits. I finished a skirt, a blouse, a dress, and a jacket in no time at all. I will definitely follow this approach again. I'm already planning for my next big "free" day when I can make up some more kits for spring and summer clothes. Now that I'm working again (and out of town most of the week), I think this is the only way I'll get any sewing done. I had a pretty good experience doing some hotel room sewing in early December, making a costume for my daughter to wear in her school's Christmas program.

Sometimes when I write this column, I feel like I'm talking to myself. (Not that there is anything wrong with that. Grandma talked to herself and inanimate objects. If she was still alive today, she would be the kind of person who shouts at their computer screen, too. She was a fine lady and was loved by her many friends. So, if I'm a little bit like her, I'll count myself lucky.) Anyway, I sometimes feel like asking: Is anyone out there? (echo, echo, echo) Thanks to those of you who have written to tell me that you actually read all my crazy ramblings!!! I bet many of you have some funny sewing stories to share. Jump in to the conversation by writing a little something for the newsletter. Don't like writing? How about a picture of your latest project, with a short description? Won't it be fun to hear about all of our sewing adventures?

Check out this year's calendar in this edition of Seamswrite. I hope that all of you will be able to participate in many of these activities.

Join us for our charity sewing event on February 27th at the 1st Christian Church in Carrollton. We're going to be making drawstring bags for our servicemen and servicewomen. We'll get started at 10:00am. Come by and help out, even if you can't stay the whole day. There's plenty to do and this is a simple project if you want to bring a starting sewer along.

Hope to see you soon!

Pin-Pal Santa-Helpers

By Louise Schubert

Carrollton-Lewisville Pin-Pals

Early in 2009, the Pin-Pals made a plan to help Santa make lots of boys and girls very happy at Christmas through their association with MetroCrest Family Services and the First Christian Church of Carrollton, where they meet.

One of the plans was to make outfits for 18” dolls, and create a wardrobe package that could be distributed as part of the MetroCrest Christmas Store. The store gathers new toys, as well as other family items and clothing, for families who are experiencing hardship. They offer a basket of food for the holidays, coats and socks while supplies last, and of course, toys for children. Each item in the store is given a value, and each family has an allowance to spend.

During the year, the club purchased 18” dolls, using discount coupons provided by members. The goal was to outfit 20 dolls with at least 5 outfits each, including a robe and pajamas, 3 everyday outfits, and one dressy outfit, with at least 1-2 pairs of shoes. One of the members designed a display bag made of clear vinyl to display the dolls and garments in an attractive way, and the members made the bags. During the November meeting, the ladies put together the packages and sent 23 dolls with wardrobes to MetroCrest. The feedback was very positive, indicating that the dolls were one of the most popular items. The plan for 2010 is to exceed 2009!

Another endeavor was to make large Christmas stockings. Fifty of these were to be used at the MetroCrest Family Clinic as a gift to children requiring treatment during the holiday season. The community clinic provides free services to families who qualify, and work in conjunction with local doctors when needed for referral for more serious illness.

Using a common pattern, the ladies sewed the 50 stockings and filled them with all kinds of treats during the November meeting. Another 150 stockings were also finished and given to the church to fill with goodies for children under the care of Child Protective Services.

Santa was VERY grateful to the Pin-Pals in 2009!

Dolls, packaged and ready to deliver to MetroCrest

Some of the members had a hard time parting with the dolls!

Neighborhood Group Locations

Neighborhood Groups meet monthly to learn and share ideas with others who sew. Members have lots of fun making projects for themselves as well as charitable projects like Christmas stockings, blankets, cancer caps, toy bears, and much more. Neighborhood Group activities also include presentations by other members or retailers, field trips to fabric stores, help with fitting problems, and other programs determined by each individual group. As an ASG member, you may attend any Neighborhood Group meeting. Guests may attend up to two meetings. If another Chapter is offering a special speaker or event, you can attend at the member price. Non-members can attend Neighborhood Group functions; however, there will be a Visitor's Fee of $10 per event after two complimentary guest visits.

Are you ready to SWAP? By Nancy Reis

Now I'm not talking about bartering, although I know a lot of sewists who love to do that. No, I'm talking about –

Sewing With A Plan!

Your DFWASG leadership would like to know if there is enough interest to start a sewing group based on topic rather than your address. If there is a big enough response, we would like to start a SWAP group.

Most of us make one garment at a time, that we really like, and when done, move on to another garment without thinking about how the next garment fits with what we just made or the rest of our clothes.

The goal would be to encourage sewists to create a plan for their garment sewing that will include 5 to 7 pieces that coordinate so that your wardrobe will be expanded exponentially since you can mix and match them. Kind of like a “collection” that big designers plan for their runway shows. At an introductory meeting, the group can decide how often and where to meet, and what kind of goals the group would like to set. At the first official SWAP meeting we would start the plan for each individual. You might bring patterns; fabric swatches; inspiration ideas from magazines, websites, etc; and maybe pictures of garments or accessories you already have in your wardrobe that you want to build on.

The group would be expected to encourage, provide advice, sewing assistance, design ideas, and whatever else would help each other complete our SWAP. We could stay in contact with one another between meetings via email or phone, and report our progress at each meeting. Everyone would work at their own pace, but you will have a network of sewists to provide resources for each other.

Does this sound like the kind of plan you would like to be part of? If so, contact Nancy Reis at tnreis@verizon.net or 972-446-9777. Do it now before you forget!

Fun at the Texas Make It With Wool Contest By Nancy Reis

The Texas Make It With Wool Contest (MIWW) was held at the YO Ranch Resort in Kerrville, Texas, on Saturday, November 28, 2009. Now that the what, where and when are taken care of, let me just say that although the turnout was shamefully small, great fun was had by all. For the past several years, Texas has held this competition by asking contestants to send photographs of their entry to the judges, and I must say that's when I stopped entering. Going to the contest and meeting other sewists was the highlight for me. So this year, with a new state director, Brenda Seidensticker, in charge, the move back to a face-to-face judged contest was made, and I decided to enter again.

There are many divisions (by age) and categories (type of entry) to enter. I am definitely in the adult category and made a three-piece outfit for myself. Two pieces are pink wool crepe with black gabardine trim. I embellished the asymmetrical collar with needlefelting. The unlined jacket over the pink was originally a blanket from the Amana Woolen Mills in Iowa – my home state. I needlefelted the front with a merino wool yarn to coordinate with the pink. I also entered the Made for Others category with a two-piece outfit for my daughter, Katie. She wore a hunter green lightweight wool suiting jacket with machine embroidery on the yokes, and tan, red, and green plaid pants. Both of these wool pieces were won in a previous MIWW contest. New this year was categories for Wearable Accessories, Non Wearable Accessories and 3-D Felted Art. There were no entries in these categories! The judging started at 9:30. The adults were held in suspense until the fashion show at 11:30 when the winner was announced – Li-Fen Anny Chang from Lewisville, an instructor in Fashion Design at North Texas State University in Denton. She made an evening dress made of wool rectangles that were hand-knotted into a very abstract design. It was very unique and very flattering. I was not surprised that she won!

Here's the shameful part – there were only three adult contestants, and only one contestant in the pre-teen, junior and senior divisions, so they didn't even need to compete! The Junior and Senior winners will be competing again in January 2010 in Nashville at the MIWW Contest.

All contestants went home with prizes of wool. Most were Pendleton woolens, but mine was a mohair piece. The wool pieces were all gorgeous and will make great entries for next year's contest. I strongly encourage all ASG'ers to consider entering. It's lots of fun and gives us a chance to show off our sewing skills. If you know of a young sewist, see if you can interest them in entering. Next year's contest will also be at the YO Resort in Kerrville on November 13th. So mark your calendar and join me for next year's contest. We'll have a blast!
